

Gardens Gone Wild!

Tomorrow morning, 11 am - noon, I will be at the Rancho Santa Ana Botanic Garden nursery (Grow Native Nursery) in Claremont speaking about gardening with native annual wildflowers. Not just a regular talk with the security of Powerpoint, I'll just be standing au natural - or so it seems - in the bright light of day, discussing preparing soil, sowing seeds, battling critters, and enjoying the glory. In preparation I developed a little poster describing the gardening calendar for annual wildflowers. Hope to see some of you there.

Gardening Calendar for Growing Wildflowers

The calendar is arranged in a circle with the following months and associated images:

- January: Photo of yellow wildflowers. Text: "Plant from cuttings".
- February: Photo of purple flowers. Text: "Plant from cuttings".
- March: Photo of yellow and blue flowers. Text: "Plant from cuttings".
- April: Photo of purple flowers. Text: "Plant from cuttings".
- May: Photo of blue flowers. Text: "Plant from cuttings".
- June: Photo of pink flowers. Text: "Plant from cuttings".
- July: Photo of pink flowers. Text: "Plant from cuttings".
- August: Photo of purple flowers. Text: "Plant from cuttings".
- September: Photo of yellow and orange flowers. Text: "Plant from cuttings".
- October: Photo of yellow and orange flowers. Text: "Plant from cuttings".
- November: Photo of yellow and orange flowers. Text: "Plant from cuttings".
- December: Photo of yellow and orange flowers. Text: "Plant from cuttings".
